

News release

Mělník, February 25, 2014

We have films for the countryside

The set of the workshops with discussion managed by specialists was launched at the beginning of this year. The workshops were designed for whole public or for specialists within the framework of the Project We Are Learning through Film. Documentary films present functional and sustainable approaches which are applied both in Europe and in the others continents.

The aim of the project is to give inspiration to people living in our region and to motivate them to make change of their minds and also the practise in rural landscape.

The topics of the discussion are concerning the development of small-scale enterprises, the development local productions, about free areas which are eligible for enterprising, about possibilities of mutual cooperation of municipalities, about modern approach to the reconstruction or new housing building or about raising of biodiversity of rural landscape.

The workshops give possibilities for local entrepreneurs and farmers to present their products and their works.

Due to financial support from the Program for Rural Development, Measure IV.2.1.: Implementation of Cooperation Project all workshops are free of charge.

More information you can find in www.vyhličky.eu

On behalf of the team of project Galina Čermáková

